

STOHN HAY CAFAZZO DEMBROSKI RICHMOND LLP

Ian Cooper, Associate

416-961-2020 ext 227
icooper@stohnhay.com

Ian represents clients in all areas of media, entertainment and technology law, focusing on film and television financing, production and distribution, music recording and publishing, and software and video game development and licensing.

Ian joined the firm as an associate in August, 2005 after practising at Torys LLP for three years, where he focused on corporate and technology matters.

Before practising law, Ian worked as a management consultant, providing advice to banks, brokerage firms and other financial services companies, and as a sports agent, representing amateur and professional hockey players.

Ian is also a writer. His work includes a non-fiction book, travel and feature stories in The Globe and Mail, The National Post and The Toronto Star and two feature-length screenplays.

Professional Activities

- Has been a contributor to Playback magazine and has given presentations for the Canadian Film Centre and the Worldwide Short Film Festival
- Member, Ontario Bar Association Entertainment, Media and Communications section

Education

- Called to the Ontario Bar – 2002
- University of Toronto, JD (with honours) – 2001
- Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, BS (Econ.) (Summa Cum Laude) – 1995

